

Detailed contents

Guide to the book	xvi
Guide to the online resources	xviii
Acknowledgements	xix
Author's foreword	xx
Editorial advisory panel	xxi

PART / 1	What is a critical thinker and why become one?	1
CHAPTER / 1	Why go to university?	3
	I. Introduction	4
	II. Role of university	5
	III. Understanding 'knowledge'	7
	IV. Critical thinking—beyond university	12
	V. Reasons to attend university	16
CHAPTER / 2	What is critical thinking?	21
	I. Introduction	22
	II. Critical thinking	23
	III. Characterizing critical thinkers	24
CHAPTER / 3	How to become a critical thinker at university	37
	I. Introduction	38
	II. What do we learn at university?	39
	III. From whom do we learn?	42
	IV. Aspects of a university learning environment	46
	V. Qualities necessary to become a critical thinker	52

PART / 2	Understanding the three aims of critical thinking	61
CHAPTER / 4	Quality of argument	63
	I. Introduction	64
	II. Components of an argument	65
	III. Logical reasoning	67
	IV. Mastering the basics: claims, links, and premises	69

	V. Introducing complexity and using argument maps	74
	VI. How to develop an argument	84
CHAPTER / 5	Strength of evidence	95
	I. Introduction	96
	II. What is evidence?	97
	III. Types of evidence	99
	IV. Evaluating evidence	103
	V. Finding academic sources	120
	VI. Referencing	123
CHAPTER / 6	Clarity of communication	131
	I. Introduction	132
	II. Written communication	134
	III. Academic writing style	134
	IV. Academic writing conventions	139
	V. Essay composition and structure	141
	VI. Improving our written communication	150
	VII. Spoken communication	153
	VIII. Being heard	154
	IX. Being understood	156
	X. The issue of nerves	161
PART / 3	Mastering the five tools of critical thinking	165
CHAPTER / 7	Writing	167
	I. Five tools of critical thinking	168
	II. Introduction to writing	171
	III. What is writing?	172
	IV. Why write at university?	174
	V. How do we write?	179
	VI. Overcoming obstacles to writing-to-think	186
	VII. Combining writing with other tools	188
	VIII. Writing-to-think as a professional	189
	IX. Writing-to-reflect	189
CHAPTER / 8	Reading	193
	I. Introduction to reading	194
	II. Why read at university?	195
	III. What is reading?	198
	IV. Developing an active reading strategy	209

	V. Overcoming obstacles to reading	223
	VI. Combining reading with other tools	227
	VII. Reading as a professional	228
CHAPTER / 9	Listening	231
	I. Introduction to listening	232
	II. What is listening?	234
	III. Why listen at university?	236
	IV. How to actively listen	239
	V. Overcoming obstacles to active listening	244
	VI. Combining listening with other tools	250
	VII. Listening in other contexts	252
CHAPTER / 10	Speaking	257
	I. Introduction to speaking	258
	II. What is speaking?	260
	III. Why speak at university?	261
	IV. How to speak	264
	V. How to approach and cope with feedback and critique	270
	VI. Overcoming obstacles to speaking	272
	VII. Combining speaking with other tools	277
	VIII. Speaking as a professional	277
CHAPTER / 11	Thinking	281
	I. Introduction to thinking	282
	II. What is thinking?	284
	III. Why think at university?	290
	IV. How to think	292
	V. Overcoming obstacles to thinking	300
	VI. Thinking beyond university	302
	VII. Combining thinking with other tools	305
	Glossary	307
	References	311
	Index	315