

Contents

Preface	vi
1 Introduction	1
PART I FROM THE 1920s TO THE EARLY POST-WAR PERIOD
2 Banks and the quantity theory: Wicksell and Fisher	24
3 Money and banking in the process of change: Schumpeter and Robertson	42
4 Banks, debt and deflation in the Great Depression	68
5 Keynes on banks in A Treatise, The General Theory and after	90
6 Further discussions and criticisms of Keynes's General Theory	114
PART II FROM THE NEOCLASSICAL SYNTHESIS TO NEW KEYNESIAN ECONOMICS
7 Finance in macroeconomics in the post-war years: the Neoclassical Synthesis	140
8 The Monetarist counter-revolution: from the 'resuscitation' to the disappearance of money	180
9 Credit and finance in today's mainstream	213
10 Conclusions	239
Bibliography	251
Index	273