

Contents

Acknowledgments	VII
List of Illustrations	VIII
List of Contributors (By Order of Chapter)	x

Introduction	1
Selçuk Esenbel

- 1 Japan and the Great Game 35
Ian Nish
- 2 Western and Central Asia in the Eyes of the Japanese Radical Right 48
Christopher W.A. Szpilman
- 3 Fukushima Yasumasa's Travels in Central Asia and Siberia: Silk Road Romanticism, Military Reconnaissance, or Modern Exploration? 69
Sven Saaler
- 4 Fukushima Yasumasa and Utsunomiya Tarō on the Edge of the Silk Road: Pan-Asian Visions and the Network of Military Intelligence from the Ottoman and Qajar Realms into Central Asia 87
Selçuk Esenbel
- 5 Mongolia as a Base for Central Asia and the Silk Road 118
Li Narangoa
- 6 Abdurreshid Ibrahim and Japanese Approaches to Central Asia 145
Komatsu Hisao
- 7 Exploring Asia, Reforming Japan: Ōtani Kōzui and Itō Chūta 155
Brij Tankha
- 8 Ōtani Kozui and His Vision of Asia: From Villa Nirakusō to "The Rise of Asia" Project 181
Erdal Küçükyağcı
- 9 The Effects of the Russo-Japanese War on Turkic Nations: Japan and Japanese in Folk Songs, Elegies, and Poems 199
A. Merthan DüNDAR

- 10 Some Notes on the Japanese Records and Information on the
"Turks" 228
Katayama Akio
- 11 Tracing Origins Along the Silk Road: Japanese Architect Itō Chūta's
Travel in the Ottoman Lands 245
Miyuki Aoki Girardelli
- 12 The Beginning of Turkish Philology and Linguistics in Japan 259
Klaus Röhrborn
- 13 Appendix to the "The Beginning of Turkish Philology and Linguistics in Japan" 289
Mehmet Ölmez
- 14 F. Beato Beyond Empires: Flaneur, Photo Reporter, Merchant 306
Banu Kaygusuz
- 15 Translation Practices on the Silk Road and Akutagawa Ryūnosuke's
"Toshishun" 323
Oğuz Baykara
- 16 Transforming an Ancient Myth into a Popular Medieval Tale 339
Satō Masako
- Index 365